1.1 Introduction

When talking about job, it all boils down to the core problem: What skill set and techniques give us the kind of job we want? We both know to each other that many consider a good job to be a well-paid one which also fit your color. That's why many adolescent seek for a university major that can better their life, this trend can clearly be seen in VietNam. As for a sister, whose brother is going to end his life in high school pretty soon, I want to make a prediction or a story-telling project to my brother because he is not the one who have vision for his future job and either the ability to do something major in this world.

Talking about major, there is some trend in the world of parent-picking one, searching for the term "Ngành học" which means "majors" on Google Trend on the 27th of September 2021, apart from queries about universities, scores to get into these, and which departments people can get in with kind of combination tests in the top 25 queries of 2021, we see some shows up on top: "Economics", "Marketing", "Business Adminstration" and "Information Techonology".
